President For Extending Aid To Democracies

Would Have Legislation On Neutrality Altered To Allow Aid

NO ALLIANCE WILL BE MADE, HOWEVER

United States Not To Recognize Legality Of Germany's Czech Conquest

By ROBERT G. NIXON
International News Service Staff
Correspondent

WASHINGTON, March 21.—President Roosevelt has notified Britain and France that the United States is ready to supply munitions to the democracies in event of a general European war, but he has refused any commitment for a direct military alliance, informed diplomats revealed today.

Condition Cited

This pledge of direct aid to Britain and France, if they are forced to war with Adolf Hitler's German Reich, was conditioned upon congress repealing the existing embargo upon shipment of munitions to warring nations. This repeal already has been proposed by Senator Key Pittman, chairman of the Senate
Foreign Relations committee.

The United States, meanwhile, prepared to notify the world it will not recognize the international legality of Germany's conquest of the Czechoslovakian republic. This official attitude, already communicated to the German government, will freeze present ownership of Czechoslovakian property and assets in the name of the destroyed democracy and keep them out of German possession.

Announcement Today

Public announcement of this position will be made during the day by publication of the note to Germany.
This note was delivered by motorcycle messenger to the German embassy late yesterday, in direct contrast to diplomatic usage, which calls for it being handed personally to a representative of the German Reich.

The American government has taken the position that because of the "wanton lawlessness" with which Germany seized Czechoslovakia,

PA NEW OBSERVES

In connection with the dedication of new hymnals at Epworth M. E. church last Sunday, Dr. Harold A.
McCurdy, Epworth minister, placed on display a hymnal which is believed to be the first used by the Methodist Episcopal church. It was published by the Wesleys in 1779.
The hymnal was given to Dr. Mc-Curdy by one of his former congregation members at Warren, Pa.

"A Nature Student" wrote Pa
New today about the 50 robins he saw nearby the old paper mill, along Neshannock creek, on St. Patrick's day. He spotted them just after the day he spotted them just after the snowstorm that morning, and he said they were as chipper as could be. He also saw a red squirrel at the bridge there, and says that it is the first he ever saw here. He thinks they're real signs of spring weather.

There is a wide distinction between the names "Syrian" and "As-syrrian," and the city direct errors in listing the local Syrian Orthodox church as an "Assyrian" Orthodox church. There are Syrians in New Castle, but no Assyrians, a member of the church said the other day,
in bringing the error to the attention of Pa New.

Spring arrived here bright and early today, greeted with sunshine, but the thermometers registered down around 15 and 16 above zero.

of Scotland Lane, witnessed an unusual sight Sunday while enroute to

EUROPEAN DEVELOPMENTS

(International News Service)
Tension in Europe eased off slightly today as statesmen from London to Moscow went into a series of conference from which the next move may emerge.

Latest developments.
LONDON—Plans for an Anglo-French-Soviet declaration against German expansion, in which as many as six other nations may join, won widespread public support in Britain and France as President Albert Lebrun of France sped to London for a state visit. British officials planned a series of vital talks with French Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet.

BERLIN—Evidence that Rome-Berlin axis stood the strain of Germany's seizure of Czechoslovakia seen as Italian ambassador left for Rome with a message from Chancellor Hitler to Premier Mussolini, assuring Il Duce that their Partnership still stands.

PARIS—Presenting firm front to Germany, France stepped up its defense industries to a 60-hour-week basis and refused to permit German representatives to occupy Czech consulates in France.

mercial relations with Germany to lapse.

United States Would Join No War Outbreak Of European Nations

By EDWARD B. LOCKETT

WASHINGTON, March 21.—President Roosevelt, at his now famous secret conference with the senate military affairs committee, declared without reservation that his administration would never permit American military forces to go to war on behalf of any foreign country not in the western hemisphere.

Keep Clear Of Conflict

He told the senators that the United States must and does stand with the European democracies against totalitarian aggression, but that if actual war comes, this country's only interest will be to keep clear of the conflict.

This was learned by International News Service today from a participant in the conference, as the president's words were cited by supporters as an argument in behalf of the new proposal for a cash-and-carry neutrality law.

Senator Pittman (D) of Nevada, chairman of the senate foreign relations committee, introduced the neutrality legislation, and it will come

Reich-Rumanian Trade Agreement Almost Certainty

Agreement Will Permit Germany To Tap Vast Rumanian Oil Reserves

(International News Service)
BUCHAREST, March 21.—The expanding German Reich will soon obtain huge supplies of oil, life-blood of modern warfare, from Rumania, it appeared today.

Informed quarters in Bucharest predicted a Reich-Rumanian trade agreement will be signed either today or tomorrow.

The pact, it was understood, will permit Germany to tap the vast Rumanian oil reserves and thus free the Reich from dependence on foreign sources of supply.

Meanwhile, the nation's military forces remained ready for any emergency. Between 300,000 and 400,000 men were reported under arms, and some two-thirds of them were believed stationed along the nation's frontiers.

Franco Planning New Offensive In Area Near Madrid

(International News Service)
ROME, March 21.—A new offensive by Generalissimo Francisco Franco in Spain before the end of March was predicted today by Vir-ginio Gayda, authoritative Italian editor, Italian Legionnaires, he said, "will play an important role."

Gayda undoubtedly was referring to Franco's long-deferred onslaught against the Madrid area.

Rumania Calls Minister Home

(International News Service)
LONDON, March 21.—Violet Virgilio Gayda, Rumanian minister to London, was hurriedly summoned back to Bucharest today for consultation.

plane tomorrow, presumably to advise his government as to progress on the scheme for a joint declaration against Nazi Imperialism.

France Speeds Up Industries To Aid Defense

Newly-Awakened France
Launches "Work To Avert War" Policy

SIXTY-HOUR WEEK
BASIS FOR INDUSTRY

France Refuses To Allow Germans To Take Over

PARIS, March 21.—A newly-awakened France, launched on the "work to avert war" policy of Premier Edouard Daladier, presented a firm front toward Nazi Germany today as its national defense industries stepped up to a 60-hour a week basis.

Moving even further than Great Britain and the United States in refusing to recognize Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler's seizure of Czechoslovakia, the government announced that German delegates would be refused permission to occupy the Czech consulates throughout the country.

French Envoy To Remain

At the same time, it was reported unofficially that Robert Coulondre, French Ambassador to Berlin who was recalled to Paris "for consultation" will remain here indefinitely.
Word was allowed to circulate that France holds to the opinion there is no point in assigning a diplomatic negotiator to a country "which has no respect for negotiations."

reached English shores on his state

Evidence Of Increased Italo-German Cooperation

By PIERRE J. HUSS
International News Service Staff

BERLIN, March 21.—Evidence of increased Italo-German cooperation in the present European crisis came today with revelation that Bernardo Attolico, Italian ambassador to Germany, left Berlin last night for Rome.

In the Italian capital, it was stated, the envoy will make a report on latest central European developments to Premier Mussolini.

While the exact nature of At-tolico's mission was not announced, it appeared a foregone conclusion he would convey to Il Duce the attitude adopted by Chancellor Hitler toward Anglo-French-Russian moves to block the Reich's expansion aims.

Memel To Be Returned

nomous Memel to Germany by

Spring Is Here; Wears Fur Coat

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, March 21.—
Spring arrived officially today at 7:28:30 a. m., wearing a fur coat.

New Yorkers slept under blankets because of the frosty weather, and even Grover A.
Whalen, the inveterate ceremony attender, didn't brave the cold breezes to watch a bevy of 14 ballet dancers welcome spring at the New York World's Fair.

A chilly 40-degree temperature was predicted for today.

monies, and introduced the officers of the company, all of whom spoke encouragingly of the outlook for the year.

(International News Service)
LONDON, March 21.—Premier Pasha Mahamoud warned Italy that unless troop reinforcements in Libya were halted, the Egyptian government would join forces with Great Britain to protect her frontiers, the Evening Star said today in an un-

Premier Mahamoud, the newspaper said, summoned the Italian outlined Egypt's attitude on the sit-

GERMAN RAILS TO BE TORN OUT AND U. S. RAILS USED

(International News Service)
LOS ANGELES, March 21.—Five hundred feet of German-made steel rails found installed in a WPA storm drain project in Los Angeles will be torn out and replaced by American rails, U. S. treasury department officials said today. Un-

WPA projects, it was pointed out.

Held In Spinster's Murder

in jail at Corpus Christi, Texas, where they were held in connection with the slaying of Miss Maude Horne, 62, in Milton, N. H. Howland and the girl are arrested as result of a fight with two men in a freight car.
Howland confessed the spinster's murder, police say. They will be returned to New Hampshire for trial.

Shenango Township To Test Fire Truck

Shenango township volunteer firemen plan to conduct final "performance tests" late this week on their newly secured American La-France fire truck. It was announced today. The truck, formerly a part of Pittsburgh's fire-fighting equipment, was brought to the township from that city late yesterday.

Leaders of the volunteers said
Fire Chief A. P. McIlwain of New Castle will inspect the apparatus, too.

Protection from fire in the East
New Castle district will increase with the acquisition of the new truck. It carries a 200-gallon booster tank, ladders and hose, and will afford the Shenango fire-fighters ample equipment to do battle with larger fires.

Preliminary tests were run Monday afternoon. However, formal acceptance of the truck depends upon the final tests later this week.

U. S. Formally Rejects Hitler's Czech Seizure

WASHINGTON, March 21.—Acting
Secretary of State Sumner Welles today made public a United States note formally refusing to recognize the legitimacy of Germany's seizure of Czechoslovakia.

Enclosed with which Welles on Friday last denounced the Czech annexation by Germany as "wanton lawlessness and arbitrary force threatening world peace and the very structure of modern civilization."

State department officials said the bitterness of this language was unparalleled in present day diplomacy.

'Y' OPEN HOUSE SET FOR FRIDAY

The New Castle Y. M. C. A. will hold "open house" for parents of boys who are association members and parents of Hi-Y and Gra-Y club members on Friday evening,
March 24 at 7 o'clock.

Under the direction of "Y" staff members, the fathers and mothers will view a program of boys' department activities and inspect the various departments of the building.
Club advisors and officers are cooperating to make this affair one of the biggest in years.

The program opens at 7:15 with a swimming program. At 7:45 the Gra-Y clubs meet in the boys' department for a question-answer contest for the parents. At 8:15 a gym program will commence. Feature acts of the coming "Y" indoor circus will be enjoyed.

John Thompson, boys' work secretary, will have charge of the boys' department activities, while William Winter, physical director, will supervise the physical program.

Dinsmore Named Reed's Assistant

Announcement was made today of the appointment of Marvin Dinsmore of Neshannock township as assistant superintendent of state highways in Lawrence county. He assumed his duties today with Superintendent Edwin O. Reed.

Mr. Dinsmore has had about fifteen years experience in engineering corps work, being associated with the Pittsburgh Limestone Company for many years. During the World War he was a member of the First

President Of France Makes London Visit

London Turns Out In Full Force To Aid In Royal
Greeting Today

OFFICIAL RECEPTION
GIVEN AT PALACE

Emphasizes Anglo-French
Solidarity In Present
European Situation

By CHARLES A. SMITH
International News Service Staff
Correspondent

LONDON, March 21.—The first flush of official enthusiasm over possibility of a coalition of democracies to "Stop Hitler" dimmed perceptibly today as London turned itself to the easier task of according a royal welcome to President and Mrs. Albert Lebrun of France.

Of Anglo-French solidarity, there has never been the slightest doubt, so Dover and London turned out in full force to shower attention on the visiting dignitaries and demonstrate thereby to Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler that Britain and France stand closely together, come what may.

Officially Greeted

Accompanied by French Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet and an imposing delegation, the president and his wife reached Victoria Station at 3 p. m. (10 a. m. E. S. T.).
They were greeted by King George and Queen Elizabeth, Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain and members of the cabinet.

From Victoria, the dignitaries travelled in state carriages through brilliantly decorated streets to Buckingham Palace for an official reception.

So far as the much-vaunted and widely-publicized coalition is concerned, anticipated difficulties have begun to develop and Whitehall soft-pedalled all hopes that a trenchant declaration against Germany by the democratic nations might be expected within 48 hours.

Proceeding Slowly

It was officially admitted that matters are proceeding slowly "due to the necessity of widest possible consultation."

"But," a spokesman added, "the whole subject is still under active consultation."

One of the stumbling blocks already encountered is that Rumania itself, chiefly threatened at the moment by Hitler's imperialism, is not at all keen to collaborate with Soviet

Compulsory Military Training In England Fails To Get Support

(International News Service)
LONDON, March 21.—Demands for immediate institution of compulsory military training in England were rejected in the House of Commons today by War Secretary Leslie Hore-Belisha.

"Although it is incumbent upon his majesty's government in the emergency to do everything practicable," he said in answer to a barrage of questions, "I am not aware that in the present circumstances the dimensions of the British army are inadequate."

Hore-Belisha declined to reveal whether the cabinet is considering conscription or compulsory military service.

Arthur Mometer

I ought to be out on a rolling greensward, with garlands of bloom in my hair. I ought to be out doin' fancy dance steps, like Powell or maybe Astaire, and I ought to be out with but very few clothes announcing the Spring that has come, but honestly folks its a wacky idea, and might be considered as dumb. For I'm not much on dancing, nor wearing few clothes, for pneumonia might stand in the way, and probably get myself tossed in jail, well its spring, fifty seven today.

Study River And Canal Projects

Many Projects Are Considered

Committee Of Rivers And Harbors Congress In Session At Washington

LOCAL CANAL IS AMONG PROJECTS

(International News Service) WASHINGTON, March 21.—More than 200 projects involving rivers and harbors, flood control, navigation, reclamation, irrigation, stream pollution prevention, and general conservation were presented today to the projects committee of the 34th national rivers and harbors congress.

Nearly 70 of the projects were submitted by Illinois.

The projects committee, headed by Senator Miller (D) Arkansas, will study feasibility of the projects, and others to be presented today and tomorrow, and will recommend desirable works to the full congress when it opens on Thursday.

The projects recommended by the committee and endorsed by the congress will be urged for inclusion in the government's public works program "as permanent investments which will increase the national wealth" and appropriation or allocation of funds sought for them.

The first list of project applications, received from throughout the nation, included:

Memorandum river, pool No. 3 Muskingum river improvement, Ohio; city of Coshocton, bank protection, Ohio; Lake Erie and Ohio river canal, Pennsylvania and Ohio.

U. S. WOULD JOIN NO WAR OUTBREAK OF EUROPEAN NATIONS

before his committee for preliminary consideration tomorrow, when army, navy and state department witnesses appear prior to discuss the Pittman resolution making American navy vessels and munitions available for sale to other western hemisphere nations.

Faces Opposition

The neutrality resolution gathered bi-partisan support immediately upon introduction but it faces stiff opposition. The strict isolationists, such as Senators Johnson (R) California, Borah (R) of Idaho, and others, were preparing to demand repeal of all existing neutrality legislation as an alternative to the Pittman measure. Some senators complained that the measure would implement Great Britain and France in war time, so long as Great Britain maintained mastery of the seas, and they privately condemned the proposal as discriminatory.

Pittman denied charges of discrimination. He said that while his resolution naturally would help any nation able to maintain control over the seas, and send ships to America to haul munitions away, it was strictly a measure for American neutrality.

Drafted For America
"I drafted this bill for America, and for no other country," Pittman said. "It provides for real neutrality, in that it prohibits the movement of munitions or any other materials, to any belligerents in American boats. Certainly, it permits the sale of any and all American goods, to anyone who wants to come to American shores, buy and carry away their purchases. But it provides carefully that title to such goods shall be transferred on American soil, and does not in any way involve this nation. I hope and believe that it will pass."

An International News Service checkup revealed that apparently a majority of the foreign relations committee favored the Pittman plan but considerable fighting may be expected in the committee before the resolution is reported to the senate. Committee hearings will be held behind closed doors but transcript of the testimony will be immediately available for publication. Pittman said he favored the plan to avoid confusion and noise and not for secrecy.

visit to King George and Queen Elizabeth. Paris newspapers hailed the journey as new and conclusive proof of Anglo-French cooperation and amity which it is hoped may eventually put a brake to Hitler's imperialistic expansion in Europe.

Crowds Cheer Lebrun

Large crowds turned out to cheer the president and his wife on their way at the Gare Du Nord. The demonstrators gave ample evidence that they realized the gravity of the present situation and that they were placing high hopes in the visit as a contribution to peace.

Meanwhile, the government proceeded swiftly with the task of promulgating the sixteen decree powers given to Daladier by an overwhelming majority in the chamber of deputies and the senate.

The journal official disclosed that reservists at Lille had received their military papers already, marking the first step toward increasing the nation's effective and bringing the magistral line up to its full wartime strength of 200,000 men.

Navy Minister Cesare Campinchi signed an order calling for immediate construction of four torpedo boat destroyers of 1,772 tons each as part of an extensive new naval building program.

The journal official disclosed a number of emergency measures in addition to those provided for in the 16-point decree. From tomorrow onward, publication and broadcasting of military information will be forbidden without express government approval.

Provisions have been made for a national defense loan reaching a maximum figure of $19,500,000, payable in five years and carrying an interest rate of 5 per cent.

Ancient lamps consisted of a hollow receptacle for the fat or oil (either opened or covered), a handle at one side and a little trough in which the wick rested with one end in the oil reservoir.

With hand upraised, former Lieutenant Governor Luren Dickenson, 79, is sworn in as governor of Michigan, as County Clerk, Miss Tennan, administers the oath. Rev. A. L. Wadley observes the ceremony. ## PA NEW OBSERVES

Youngstown. Mr. Hoover was forced to almost stop his automobile just this side of Parkstown when five does and a buck ran across the road in front of the car. It was the first time Mrs. Hoover had ever seen a live deer.

Just a year ago, tomorrow, the temperature reached a high point of 84 degrees, and Pa New knows a lot of people around here who would be glad to see it duplicated.

This morning, a starling was pipping his "song," while perched on a telephone wire, opposite the home of Mrs. Bliven Otto, of West Washington street, seemingly quite content with the world. Mrs. Otto states that this bird has spent the winter nights "roosting" in the attic of her home, and thus far has not discovered where her "lodger" gets in and out.

Today is the first day of Spring, and again it is time for buds, birds, and bells on cats. Members of the East Side Garden club like Puss, but due to the fact that she is such a quiet animal, bird lives are endangered. Therefore, members of this club will gladly supply cat-bells to any who might ask for them. The tiny tinkle of a little bell tied around Kitty's neck is scarcely noticeable to humans and doesn't bother cats at all, but it is sufficient to warn the birds and give them a chance to escape death at the paws of any household pet cat.

CIGARET CAUSES WASTE PAPER FIRE
Firemen were called to the Dufford home, at 104 North Crawford avenue, at 9:10 o'clock Monday evening, when someone dropped a cigarette in a waste paper basket on the third floor of the Dufford home, where Francis Dufford has an amateur radio broadcasting station. The fire had been extinguished by the time firemen arrived.

Russia particularly if such collaboration involves possible future dispatch of Soviet troops into or across Rumania.

The Russians too showed a decided disinclination to proceed too swiftly at the moment. The proposed draft declaration, even when it is forthcoming, must be submitted to Moscow for official consideration there, they said.

Seek Practicable Basis

Despite natural British and French objections to submitting such a declaration to the Soviet government, both are ready to go forward slowly when and if any practicable basis can be found. The Soviets continue to favor a conference of foreign ministers, perhaps to be held in Bucharest.

Under plans now being discussed through diplomatic channels, the proposed declaration might be herded by Poland, Rumania, Turkey and Greece, and perhaps by Yugoslavia and Bulgaria.

Negotiations aimed at preventing further German incursions such as that which obliterated Czechoslovakia will receive an impetus with the arrival in London today of French Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet, who is accompanying President and Mrs. Albert Lebrun on their state visit to London.

Bonnet is expected to take an active part in assisting the diplomatic maneuvers for formation of an anti-Hitler coalition that may embrace seven or nine nations.

Two of the foremost questions to be taken under consideration are Germany's ambitions regarding Memel and the efforts of the Reich to gain domination over Rumania, economically, so that the vast Rumanian oil reserves would be available to Germany in the event of a war.

the war-born democracy still exists in international law, though destroyed in fact, the note sent to the German embassy established the legal grounds upon which this government will refuse to order Czechoslovakian assets turned over to Germany.

The effect of the American position will be to impose around $1,000,000 of Czech deposits in American banks, pending a final diplomatic solution of the Czech problem. This solution may not be reached for years.

Upholds Czech Minister

The decision also upholds the right of Czech Minister Vladimir Hurban to possession of the $115,000 Czech legation property in the capital. Hurban has refused to turn it over to the German Reich. This property may be used as a headquarters for a Czech autonomous organization pending the day when the republic may be restored.

Diplomats reported Hurban is unable to maintain the legation as a Czech headquarters out of his personal funds. As a result, American Czechs are understood to be raising a purse to finance his independent residence in Washington.

The American government's attitude toward Hurban reflects the earlier announcement of acting Secretary of State Sumner Welles that the United States regards the German conquest of Czechoslovakia as "temporary." In that statement alone, Welles disclosed the United States expects the ultimate restoration of Czechoslovakia as an independent republic.

Germany officially notified the United States Friday of its Czech conquest. The Reich note described how Herr Hitler proclaimed pro-

It is hoped that the full thousand members will have been reached for their renewals by Friday evening and the reports of club teams, as well as church and committees will be complete. Membership in the Y. W. C. A. is based on responsibility for the purpose of the association. All groups who use its services and building are asked to join its membership and take an active interest in its work.

Mrs. A. B. Foster Re-Elected Head Of Woman's Club Here

Mrs. Arthur B. Foster will again head Woman's club for the coming year, having been re-elected at Monday afternoon's meeting in the Highland U. P. church.

There will be four changes in her cabinet. Mrs. C. M. England elected to succeed Mrs. Keith McFee as second vice president; Mrs. Carl Crawford to succeed Mrs. Robert Eckles, as corresponding secretary; Mrs. W. K. Hugas, historian, in place of Mrs. W. A. Pond, who resigned several months ago; Mrs. F. R. Woods, parliamentarian, vice Mrs. T. A. Gilkey.

Others re-elected were: Mrs. Harry L. Gormley, first vice president; Mrs. Raymond Horcher, recording secretary; Mrs. Harry Dinsmore, treasurer; Mrs. James W. Rhodes, chairman of the nominating committee presented the slate.

A report of the budget for 1939-40, was read by Mrs. Charles E. Allen who served on this committee with Mrs. Gayl Blim chairman, and Mrs. George B. Balch.

Another matter of importance before the club was an amendment to Article V of the by-laws which will reduce the number of meetings during the year from 16 to 12.

Resolutions on the passing of the late Mrs. John Miller were read by Mrs. Charles Wetlich, member of the committee consisting of Mrs. M. R. Hornung, chairman and Mrs. Max Ludwig.

Routine business transacted, the club turned its attention to the guest speaker of the day, Dr. Edward H. Griggs of New York, noted philosopher, teacher, lecturer and traveler. He spoke on the subject "Beauty and the Culture of the Spirit," and he brought an inspirational and stimulating message to the large audience.

He said: "Beauty appeals to the whole human spirit, giving ideas to the mind, pictures to the imagination; it creates a deep stirring of emotions, and is a challenge to the will for action."

"Beauty appeals through the senses to the soul, especially through the senses of sight and hearing. In the fine arts of sculpture and painting, appeal is made with form and color to sense sight, giving different conceptions with which one's emotions are associated. Music appeals with sound forms directed to sense hearing and awakens emotions, with which one associates reflections."

He pointed out the wealth of beauty to be found in God's art (Nature), and that in the field of humans; music, painting, sculpture and literature. "Life is the one complete and universal fine art of them all," he concluded.

As previously when he has spoken before the Woman's Club, Dr. Griggs was well-received. He goes about the country speaking upon request, because he has something to say and can say it without superfluous words. One of the interesting things about Dr. Griggs is his remarkable command of the English language. Another is his keen interest in humanity and these attributes coupled, make him what he is recognized to be—one of the most outstanding lecturers on the platform today.

One of the interesting things about Dr. Griggs is his remarkable command of the English language. Another is his keen interest in humanity and these attributes coupled, make him what he is recognized to be—one of the most outstanding lecturers on the platform today.

He said: "Beauty appeals to the whole human spirit, giving ideas to the mind, pictures to the imagination; it creates a deep stirring of emotions, and is a challenge to the will for action."

"Beauty appeals through the senses to the soul, especially through the senses of sight and hearing. In the fine arts of sculpture and painting, appeal is made with form and color to sense sight, giving different conceptions with which one's emotions are associated. Music appeals with sound forms directed to sense hearing and awakens emotions, with which one associates reflections."

He pointed out the wealth of beauty to be found in God's art (Nature), and that in the field of humans; music, painting, sculpture and literature. "Life is the one complete and universal fine art of them all," he concluded.

As previously when he has spoken before the Woman's Club, Dr. Griggs was well-received. ### YOU'VE GUESSED IT

AT LAST the expected guest is here. Smiling skies have greeted Spring's advent. May they be true harbingers of what is to come. Soon the crack of the bat will resound throughout the land. As you roll through the countryside verdancy will greet you everywhere, increasingly as the days pass. But all of Spring is not green. It has its browns and yellows and even glorious reds to greet the eye of the observer.

Let's prepare to enjoy the glad season, even though our names do not turn up in the sweepstakes drawings overseas. Winter has departed, true enough, but Spring is not truly Spring unless we attune our own spirits to it. This is the time for trying to forget carking care. Kind nature makes the world our oyster, but our own friendly frame of mind has to furnish the shucking-knife. And as lengthening days grant the lover of the out-of-doors an additional boon, we shall be set for full enjoyment of the beneficence of changing seasons.

BRIGHT STUDENTS HOLD ADVANTAGE

There is a rather common impression that children who start out as prodigies don't amount to much. A study made in California indicates that this is a very mistaken notion. Boys and girls who are bright in school usually continue so and hold their advantage over the mediocre. Dr. Lewis M. Terman, psychologist in Leland Stanford University, followed up the careers of more than a group of 1,400 children picked in 1922 as the brightest among 250,000 California youngsters. A recent check-up shows that they are succeeding in life in far greater proportion than their less-brilliant school friends.

Half of the boys are now in the professions and one-fourth in semi-professional work or business. The remaining fourth cover a good deal of occupational territory. They are artists, radio announcers, good writers, jazz-band players, movie technicians, salesmen, stamp dealers, and so on with one policeman and a fox farmer. And here is, to most people perhaps the most telling point in the whole report: Not one of these gifted youngsters has been on relief rolls.

The conclusion seems to be that both brains and education pay. Education is good for anybody, but it's a great waste especially for the bright child not to have it.

ATTACKS TRADE RESTRICTION

No time has been lost by the Council of State Governments in moving to solve the problem of interstate trade barriers. At its assembly two months ago in Washington with 46 states represented it went on record as opposed to legal devices that block the free movement of commodities between the states. Now comes the announcement that the council has called a national conference in Chicago early next month to consider means to halt the trend so damaging to economic welfare.

The announcement follows directly on the heels of Secretary Wallace's statement offering federal aid. To show the need for prompt measures Frank Bane, the council's executive secretary, tells that "scores of bills extending these trade barriers" are pending in the 42 legislatures now in session. Doubtless many of these have been conceived in a spirit of retaliation. In short, the states are acting in exactly the same way that nations are led to act by unfair restrictions to commerce. With nations the ultimate outcome may be war; with the states the situation unchecked cannot but be seriously disrupting to our domestic cohesion.

Fortunately, consumers are at last awakening to what the present course means to them in higher costs. This encourages belief that a definite program of remedial action through interstate compacts, will be reached at Chicago. It will come too soon.

YANKEE CLIPPER

On the Pacific Coast regular air service between one continent and another has been accepted as an accomplished fact. Perhaps because the East has been so far removed from the conquest of the Pacific by airplane, the idea of regular Atlantic crossings by air is still pretty breath-taking to the country east of the Rockies.

The excellent record of the Pacific clippers is now an old story. A few accidents have marred their triumph, but the fact remains that numbers of people have flown from California to the Orient safely and on schedule. Easterners accept that fact but many of them still regard the Atlantic Ocean as something more difficult than the Pacific. The ocean's weather is tricky. The stretch between Newfoundland and Ireland is a long one. Nevertheless, the time has come when the airplane will attempt the long hop, not as a spectacular stunt, but as a commercial enterprise.

One has only to compare the first tiny planes which attempted the crossing with the plane which is now designed for it, to realize the tremendous progress of aviation during the last decade.

The Yankee Clipper carries fifty-five passengers. It is the world's largest transport plane, dedicated not to war but to the closer and more peaceful relationship of nations. The test flights have been made, the route established. Soon a new commercial service will be in operation.

In spite of set-backs, disappointments, occasional tragedies, the conquest of the air continues.

What Noted People Say

(International News Service)
CHICAGO—Dr. Eduard Bernes urges the United States to prepare for a role in war.

"In the approaching battle for the victory of the spirit against the sword, the United States had a very great role to play. Be ready for that conflict and be strong, people of democracy."

NEW YORK—Dr. William Jay Schiefelin reports progress in signing up Nazi boycotters.

"If we keep it up Hitler can be forced by economic pressure not only to abandon his plans of conquest but his terrible persecutions as well."

ST. LOUIS—Dr. Thomas Mann urges the democracies to act against Germany.

"If the democracies took a firmer stand against Chancellor Hitler, the German people would be the first to act and possibly would overthrow the Nazi government."

WASHINGTON—Sen. Key Pittman explains his foreign relations stand:

"We are interested in seeing that a substantial balance of power is maintained in Europe because if any one group obtains absolute power over Europe and Asia we will be faced with the defense of the Monroe Doctrine in Latin America."

INFANT TOO ACTIVE

Here are answers to more questions about baby.

Q. My 15-month-old baby is very strong and active, and I myself am frail. When I dress him he jumps around so much that it almost wears me out to change his clothes.

A. It might quiet him to give him a toy, to talk of some of his immediate experiences, say nursery rhymes to him or sing lullabies to him, turn him on his tummy bare his bottom, and let him have a few lullabies. Such treatment works almost like magic for quieting the little "bucking broncho." Of course, there might have to be several "treatments" over a period of several days.

Q. Can a three-year-old child learn to operate a phonograph?

A. Yes; some youngsters even at two can do so. But be certain you show the little tyke how to do it carefully. Have you observed young children amusing themselves with the phonograph, even keeping time with the music? Having a phonograph, you can expose your little child to the best music very early, and at times when it is most desirable for him to hear it.

Q. My baby is four. When should I first take him to the public library?

A. Right away. Show him some books from which you will read to him. Have a library card made for him, and let him begin now to borrow books from the library.

Q. When my three-year-old boy gets awfully bad I tell him about the policeman or the boy-man. It works. My sister frightens her daughter, four years old, by threatening to call the doctor. She says it works, too. What do you think of these kinds of punishment?

A. Such kinds of punishments are bad. I can see how puzzled mothers drift into using them. They feel they must do something to make the baby mind, and probably have supposed they should never spank the child, having read and heard so often that they shouldn't. And these mothers discover that when the youngster is threatened with the boy-man, police or doctor, he immediately is conquered. But while he may be frightened into obedience for the moment, he also grows more fearful and anxious. Besides, he comes to fear the very persons who are eager to have him trust. If we teach him to fear the policeman, we rob him of the best way for his protection later; this fear might cost him his life. If we teach him to fear the doctor, how are we to lead him to co-operate with the doctor when he is sick?

Here is a rule which should help us parents: Never use as punishment what you want the child to like.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

ANTIOCH

General Lew Wallace wrote the remarkable story of "Ben Hur" and laid the scene of the Christ Race in Antioch at the time Antioch was in the heyday of its glory.

The city was built about three hundred fifty years before the Roman Emperors and in its greatest glory had a population of over 500,000 people. Today, it is a poor, unattractive place, of about 28,000 souls. It was famous in ancient times and the place where the disciples of Christ were first called Christians. The approach to the city was a highway built of matched cut stone extending four miles from the outer gateway of the city to the city proper and was flanked by colonnades of massive stone pillars so typical of old Greek architecture. Seventeen streams wound their way through the city.

This Syrian city has been the object of much interest since. In the summer of 1910, a British expedition completed many months of work excavating its buried ruins.

After the expedition had completed its labors and returned to England, many of the Arabs who had labored under its direction, found themselves unemployed. In the absence of any "W. P. A." projects, they continued their labors independently in search of objects which they might sell to the tourists for a few coins. These men succeeded in finding the real treasure of Antioch. They dug down more than forty feet in an old well and found a crypt containing objects containing more than a million dollars worth of gold and silver and art objects and samples of lost art in etching and engraving that are priceless.

These objects included a large silver and engraved cross, ornate book covers, and the greatest find of all, a beautiful gold chalice. This chalice was smuggled into France and when the great war broke out, it was brought to America for safekeeping. It is owned by a wealthy man named Casanovi and it is expected that eventually it will be housed in a beautiful structure to be built especially for it in Washington, D. C.

One of the world's greatest archeologists, Dr. Elsen, has studied this chalice continuously for many years and has determined that the figures engraved thereon are likenesses of The Christ and his twelve Disciples. Another interesting point is that the head of each figure on the chalice appears to be four times larger than it actually is and each character seems to be alive. This chalice is believed to have been the cup used at The Last Supper.

The newspaper reporter who called on her for a story on how it felt to be almost a hundred years old was openly curious and looked at her admiringly.

"Mrs. Smith can you tell me so I can pass it on to others, what has been the chief reason that you were able to attain this age with so few signs to show the ravage of time?" he asked. "Can you give me the chief source?"

The old lady smiled as her eyes glowed with fond memories. "Victuals," she said.

NEEDS GLASSES
An employee of the state conservation department was out in the country on an inspection trip and was parked in a village to check over forestry work being done thereabouts.

A woman came out of a house and asked the employee to come over and fix the telephone.

"But I don't work for the telephone company," said the man.

"Don't try to get out of it that way," reproved the woman. "Anyone can plainly see that sign on your car which says 'conservation department.'"

THE HEIGHT OF ABSURDITY
A correspondent sends the editor of Esquire Magazine a story that is worth repeating. Three officers of the Army, Navy and Marine Corps were speculating over the identity of the Unknown Soldier.

"It's barely possible," declared the Rear Admiral, "that he was a Navy man."

"Oh, he probably was a soldier," spoke up the Colonel.

"And," suggested the leatherneck, "he might have been a Marine."

"Gentlemen," snorted the Admiral "who the hell ever heard of an unknown Marine?"

If a publication isn't supported by advertising or subscription, it is fed by something more secret—and whose bread I eat, his song I sing.

Discovery Of Felt
It is said that felt came to be because of a weary, footsore monk. Back in the days of William the Conqueror, when pilgrims were in vogue, St. Feutre, tired and footsore happened to pass a flock of sheep. He plucked a few handfuls of wool from their backs and placed it inside his shoes, praying for a miracle to show that God did not object. Lo and behold at the end of his journey he removed his shoes and found the miracle. His feet had matted the wool into a new and hitherto unknown material—Felt. So goes the old legend.

War Would Aid Fascist Cause Here
Peace Advocate Predicts Outcome
Fortifying Guam Is Held Dangerous

By CHARLES P. STEWART

Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, March 21—"Strife between the United States and Japan," remarked Executive Secretary Frederick J. Libby of the National Council for Prevention of War, as a witness the other day before the senate naval affairs committee, "can result in only one way. Asia will go Red; the United States will go Fascist."

Secretary Libby was speaking in opposition to American fortification of Guam, as needlessly provoking to the Mikado. I'm a neutral on this issue. In the first place, Guam's fortification isn't argued at present. All that's proposed is to improve its harbor and landing-field facilities—for a measly little $5,000,000, or just a small fraction of what it would cost to fortify the mere pinpoint of an island. Still, it's true, as Secretary Libby argues, that such initial tinkering might simply prepare sure-enough fortification. We know, too, that Japan feels that way about it; its spokesmen and its newspapers have said so. There's no doubt that our expenditure of even $5,000,000 on that island would be aggravating to Nippon.

Well, what of it? It's our island. Are we going to be dictated to by Tokyo? I wouldn't say so, necessarily. I'm a pacifist, but only in moderation.

Reds?—Fascists?

But as to Japanese Communism and Yankee Fascism.

Exactly why Japan should turn Communist I don't quite see. The Jap government seems to me to be quite Fascistic or Nazi-istic already. Why should it flip over to Communism? I'd guess rather that it would get yet more totalitarian.

But I can understand why we, bothered by a foreign war, might turn a lot more Fascistic—or Nazi-istic.

On this ground I imagine Secretary Libby may know what he's talking about.

We became unpleasantly dictatorial during the last war. Good authorities argue that we'll become decidedly more so during the next one—but that we'll return to normalcy subsequently.

What I suspect is that, the next time, we shan't return to normalcy so readily. That seems to be what worries Secretary Libby. However, Secretary Libby confined himself to a discussion of Jap-American relations.

Executive Director Ray Newton of the American Friends Service Committee points to the risk of a clash between the New World powers and some of the Old World aggression. We know which ones he means—Germany, Italy and possibly re-revolutionized Spain.

It obviously would be a super-mean mess—the U. S., Britain, France, Holland, Switzerland, the Scandinavians, Latin America and China versus Germany, Italy and the Japs.

Precisely where Russia would fit into it is problematic. Director Newton asks a "negotiated peace" before war breaks out—not afterward. But can he get away with it?

Domestic Affairs
Switching to domestic affairs—Some of our government economists make the point that Britain (a pretty good economic nation) owes a good deal more on the dollar on its public debt than we do—and nevertheless is considered solvent.

These wisecracks don't take into account the fact that John Bull doesn't spend any of his borrowed money on election contests. He hasn't any disputes over Pennsylvania, Kentucky and New Mexico local political fights. The taxpayer here gets his taxes worth.

And we've had some scandals concerning our federal judiciary. I've referred to them and I got an answer—from a lawyer of considerable prominence. You might think he'd resent it.

What he says is: "The United States Senate has heard only twelve impeachment cases. In 1799 Senator William Blount's case was dismissed for want of jurisdiction. In 1868 Andrew Johnson was acquitted. In 1876 Secretary of War William W. Belknap was acquitted. The others charged were federal court judges. In these nine cases four judges were removed from office and one resigned as it was going on, so it was dismissed. In the other four cases the judges were acquitted."

"This," comments my correspondent, "shows a startling fact that the only persons successfully impeached were judges (one may say five out of nine as the one who resigned practically pleaded guilty)."

"Nine impeachments cases against judges and only three against all other federal officers!"

"Not at all complimentary to the judges!"

Words Of Wisdom
The man without a purpose is like a ship without a rudder—a waif, a nothing, a no man. Having a purpose in life, and, having it, throw strength of mind and muscle into your work as God has given you—Carlyle.

Hints On Etiquette
If you would be popular in society, cultivate a memory for names as well as faces. You have to work to acquire the knack of remembering names, but it is well worth the effort.

PATRICK'S SLIP
A boy wrote this in a composition of Patrick Henry:

"Patrick Henry was not a bright boy. He had blue eyes and light hair. He got married then said, 'Give me liberty or give me death.'"

The Great Stamp Plan

Washington, March 21.

THE latest development in the AAA hardly harmonizes with the sentiments which have exuded from various Administration spokesmen in the last few weeks. Or perhaps that idealistic and high-minded man, Secretary Wallace, has not been adequately apprised that the White Rabbit period has passed and the White House is now anxious to concede the country that no more experiments are contemplated.

BECAUSE the new plan of Mr. Wallace to supplement the pay of WPA workers by issuing to them specially designed blue and orange colored stamps with which they can buy food at grocery stores is certainly the most complicated, not to say cockeyed, experiment which has emanated from the New Dealers since Rexford Guy Tagwell went into the molasses business. It is difficult in a short space to describe the plan and in any space to prove its workability.

THE features seem to be these—the AAA proposes to issue these stamps to WPA workers or others receiving Federal relief. An estimate of how much money a man should spend weekly on food will be made by the AAA and stamps to that value given him. Part of this is in addition to his relief pay. The grocers will accept the stamps as money and the banks receive them as money because of the Government guarantee to redeem them. So far as the WPA worker is concerned the stamps amount to an outright cash gift from the Government.

By a string tied to it that makes it impossible for him to spend the stamps on anything but food. The theory of the plan is first, that it will increase the consumption of food and thus use up the surplus crops; second, that the increased consumption will stiffen sagging prices of farm products; third, that it is a method of redeeming the hungry, fourth, that it elevates the scale of relief.

IT IS easy to understand that this plan will be acceptable to the WPA workers as it increases their pay. And it is easy to understand that it will be acceptable to the farmers as the AAA proposes to continue to buy surplus crops just as it is doing now. The new scheme will not supplant the old one—it merely supplements it. In addition, there is no reason grocers should oppose. On the contrary, they probably will be for it in preference to the present free-hit-and-miss distribution of food to relief workers. In this way they will get on their public debt, than we do—and nevertheless is considered solvent.

These wisecracks don't take into account the fact that John Bull doesn't spend any of his borrowed money on election contests. He hasn't any disputes over Pennsylvania, Kentucky and New Mexico local political fights. The taxpayer here gets his taxes worth.

And we've had some scandals concerning our federal judiciary. I've referred to them and I got an answer—from a lawyer of considerable prominence. You might think he'd resent it.

What he says is: "The United States Senate has heard only twelve impeachment cases. In 1799 Senator William Blount's case was dismissed for want of jurisdiction. In 1868 Andrew Johnson was acquitted. In 1876 Secretary of War William W. Belknap was acquitted. The others charged were federal court judges. In these nine cases four judges were removed from office and one resigned as it was going on, so it was dismissed. In the other four cases the judges were acquitted."

"This," comments my correspondent, "shows a startling fact that the only persons successfully impeached were judges (one may say five out of nine as the one who resigned practically pleaded guilty)."

"Nine impeachments cases against judges and only three against all other federal officers!"

"Not at all complimentary to the judges!"

Lawrence County Farms And Farmers

D. H. Ricks, Acting County Agent

LIME NECESSARY FOR PASTURE IMPROVEMENT

Lime is the key that opens the door to pasture opportunity.

Since most poor pastures never have been limed, the acidity must be at least partially corrected before satisfactory improvement can be expected. Superphosphate and manure can then follow.

Clover and bluegrass may thrive on sour soils which are in very high fertility but fail completely where the soil is both sour and poor. Bent grass, fescues and redtop do not respond particularly to lime. Where they predominate and liming is too expensive, improvement simply with manure and fertilizer may be attempted.

In limestone sections, or regions where considerable lime has been used in the past having samples of soil tested by the county agent will show how much lime is needed. Sometimes depleted pastures are merely low in plant food and not very sour. If the test shows a need for more than 2,000 pounds of limestone, or its equivalent, lime should be applied. If the soil needs 4,000 pounds or more, liming will be essential for satisfactory results.

Most poor pasture soils will show a requirement of at least 6,000 pounds of limestone. This does not mean that the full amount must be applied. Sweetening an inch or two of the surface soil, in which are most of the grass roots, will be sufficient. Applications of at least one ton of limestone or its equivalent will be necessary. If lime is cheap and the soil very poor, two tons will give much better and more lasting results.

GOOD SEED IMPORTANT

Lawrence county farmers could greatly reduce the cost of producing their crops by sowing only the best seed. Although losses are brought about in a number of different ways, there are five factors which are chiefly responsible.

The variety and source of growth of seed should be given careful consideration. It is a well-known fact that some varieties of corn, wheat and other seed will produce a better yield in certain regions than other varieties.

The quality of the seed should always be given serious attention. A few years ago in an experiment carried on for seven years, 62 bushels of corn per acre were grown from large seeds and only 47 bushels per acre from small seeds, both being selected from the same stock and grown under exactly the same conditions each year. The difference between 62 bushels and 47 bushels, or 15 bushels per acre, is clear proof.

Perhaps the greatest loss to the farmer is caused by the sowing of seeds which have not been tested for purity. Many farmers in Pennsylvania are still sowing wheat that contains cockle. One or two per cent of cockle may cause a discount of three cents per bushel, while three to five per cent will cause as much as 11 cents discount. Cockle is the only one of the many weed seeds which can be detected through testing for purity.

Seeds with a high percentage of germination are necessary for a profitable crop. It is a law of the agricultural states that seeds sold for seeding purposes shall show on the label the percentage of germination with the date when the test was made.

A few years ago the United States Department of Agriculture in cooperation with some experimentations performed some experiments with rather startling results. Seed corn that gave 100 per cent germination but showed disease infection was matched against seed that showed no infection. The disease-free seed produced from 10 to 30 per cent better yield than that produced by the infected seed.

In 1931 Pennsylvania enacted a seed law whose purpose is two-fold: first, to insure a supply of good clean seed, free from weeds and waste material for farmers' use; second, to protect the honest seedsmen and farmers against the practices of dishonest and careless seedsmen.

Farmers who buy from mail order houses or other retailers outside the state can secure no protection under the Pennsylvania law. However, most reliable out of state seed houses comply with the Pennsylvania requirements. Farmers should always examine the tag which bears the analysis of the seed, and if the seedsmen cannot produce a statement of the analysis, the farmer should refuse to buy. Quality and not price should be the main factor in purchasing seeds.

CAREFUL FEEDING HELPS GOOD GROWTH OF CALVES

Overfeeding calves which have learned to drink is more injurious than underfeeding during the first two weeks.

A quart of milk three times a day is recommended for the first week. During the second week the calf may receive 2 to 2½ quarts twice a day. With Jerseys and Guernseys it may be well to feed only the first milk drawn which is not quite so high in butterfat.

Toward the end of the second week the milk may be increased generally, depending on the size and thriftiness of the calf. One pound of milk daily for each 8 or 10 pounds of liveweight of the calf is a good rule to follow.

While milk is essential to get calves started well the first few weeks, a switch may be made gradually to any one of several different methods of raising calves. There is no one best method. Within recent years, however, there has been quite a trend to the dry mix method of raising calves. This method allows for a minimum amount of milk and still keeps the calves growing in a thrifty manner.

HYBRID CORN

Most Lawrence county farmers have already received some seed catalogues this spring. Those who intend to order seed corn have no doubt been reading considerable about Hybrid varieties of field corn. A word of caution may be sounded to those who would like to try some kind of Hybrid corn this year.

The agronomy department of the Pennsylvania State college, the extension service and various farmers' organizations have reported on a great many tests and demonstrations comparing large numbers of corn hybrids with local, open pollinated corn varieties during the past two years in Pennsylvania. This work has shown conclusively that most of the hybrids are more uniform in growth habits and that they will stand up better than open pollinated varieties when damaging storms occur. Some hybrids are better than others in strength of roots and stalk. This is a valuable characteristic, especially in sections and locations where such damage is of frequent occurrence. It is particularly desirable where one wishes to cut the corn with a binder or husk from the stalk with a corn picker or even by hand.

The fact that hybrid corns often stand up better as a whole, was approved by one Lawrence county farmer by the statement that it might be worth buying new seed every year by saving his religion during corn cutting time. He intends to plan a little for ensilage and cut it with a binder.

Figures on comparative yields of hybrids, however, have been rather inconsistent. A hybrid which yields high in some tests might be comparatively poor in other tests or in other seasons in other parts of the section. It seems probable, due to the special breeding used in developing the hybrids, that their range of adaptation to soil and season is narrower than of open pollinated corn. Pennsylvania farmers certainly fail to secure the consistent large increases over open pollinated varieties which the hybrids have produced in the middle west where they were developed, and for which conditions they were bred. In some tests good local corns have yielded nearly as well as, or even better than, the best hybrids tested. Some hybrids have been very decidedly inferior in yield to local varieties.

Several tests with different varieties of hybrid husking corns as against local open pollinated varieties have been made in Lawrence county. In some of these tests, the best hybrid out-yielded the local corn. In other tests, the local corn equalled and in some cases out-yielded all the hybrids. One thing brought out clearly in these tests was that most hybrids will not mature in Lawrence county in an average season. Last year, due to the late frosts, some hybrid varieties ripened here that were more suited to the southern parts of the state. There was only one husking variety of hybrid in these tests that looked as though it might consistently mature in this county and that was K-23. In some cases it out-yielded local corns and in other cases, it didn't.

There have been made disappointments with hybrids in Pennsylvania, due to farmers being sold strains which were much too late for the section where planted. If it happened that the season was long enough to ripen these late strains, as was the case last year, yields were, of course, higher than those from the smaller adapted local varieties. But safe maturity is more important than a few extra bushels. The seasonal requirements of the more common commercial hybrids are being observed.

Corn hybrids should not be condemned or actively discouraged where farmers understand the situations, consider carefully suitable and fairly well proven hybrids from a reliable source, and are willing to pay the price every year for new seed—as new seed must be secured each year. However, further careful testing seems to be needed before any hybrids are recommended for general use in Pennsylvania.

Farmers in Lawrence county who wish to try a little hybrid in comparison with their own seed will do well to try Ohio K-23 as it is probably the most adapted to our conditions. Ohio M-15 may also be used in some small experiments. It is a new corn on the market and is supposed to mature as early or earlier than K-23.

Lawrence county farmers are cautioned to try only a little of these corns and then compare them with their own varieties.

As far as ensilage is concerned in Lawrence county, no information is available on comparisons of hybrids with old "stand-bys". Anyone wishing to experiment a little along this line might try a little Ohio W-17, Iowa 939 or U. S. 44.

It is suggested that Lawrence county farmers go slowly and experiment with hybrids against their present varieties.

SELECT LINES TO FIT WITH OTHER FURNISHINGS

While sales may offer an opportunity for the bride to be to select lines for her "hope chest".

Before she spends her time and money for these things, she should decide on the other furnishings she wants in her home. Miss Julia Markle, home economics extension representative of Lawrence county believes. Other persons who are buying for her should consider this, too. If the bride-to-be expects to have early American maple and quaintly patterned dishes, she probably will like to collect interesting but simple homespuns. Or if she wants to be more modern, she may select some of the novelty weaves with bold or unusual patterns and colors.

The texture of the cloth should harmonize with the silver and china. Miss Markle points out. With colored pottery that is so popular at present, a coarser linen is more appropriate. With china, she should select fine linen or damask. Probably some of both could be used.

The next thing the bride-to-be thinks of is the right size of cloth to fit the table. The cloth may just fit the table or may hang over the edges. Place mats and a runner may be used instead of a cloth. Napkins may be 12 to 15 inches square or the newer rectangular shape may be preferred.

Where the income be small, it is wiser to eliminate colored or hand-blocked linens from the hope chest. Lovely when new, the colors tend to the white background become dingy. Heavily embroidered linens are hard to launder. Miss Markle stresses. Simple designs may be worked out easily when linens are purchased by the yard. But whatever color you select, see that it harmonizes with other colors in the room or in the china.

City To Pay Small Damage To Autoist

Council convened in the city building Monday, and, acting upon a recommendation of City Solicitor William Cobau ordered $250, paid to Frances Haydon, Walmo. She drove her car into Euclid avenue, between Wilmington avenue and North Mercer street, February 21,

The WPA had erected no barrier and the street, where a storm sewer was laid, had not been restored to its normal condition. It had to be towed out. Cobau said the city had a responsibility as overseer for the accident, hence his recommendation.

The Great Game Of Politics

the country as a whole it would seem a very severe headache, indeed. It would provide an inducement for men on relief to shun jobs in private industry, and for those in private jobs to get on relief. A greater national disservice could hardly be imagined. An interesting point is made by Mr. Mark Sullivan, who asserts what is certainly true, that Congress would not pass any such legislation as this. Yet, under the blanket powers conferred in the name of Emergency, New Deal bureaucrats can thus proceed from one expensive experiment affecting millions of people to another without the necessity of presenting a bill, much less passing it. Or even finding out if anyone wants it.

Rotary Audience Hears Dr. Griggs

Club Members, Wives Hear Eloquent Lecturer At Luncheon

"Democracy can bring either the worst government a people may be willing to tolerate or the best government a people may be willing to work for," Dr. Edward Howard Griggs, distinguished nationally-known lecturer and author, told members of the Rotary club and their wives in a brilliant address on "Representative Government and the World Crisis" at Rotary's weekly luncheon in The Castleton yesterday.

Mr. Griggs, one of the most eloquent speakers to appear before the clubmen in years, averages 50,000 miles of travel for lecture purposes each year. He is also an author.

"The thing that warms your heart and encourages you in these dark hours of human history," said Dr. Griggs, after speaking at length of the present governments of England and France, "is that everywhere you go throughout this large country, people are letting you know they are proud that they are citizens of the United States of America. In every district you find it that way. They are conscious of their liberties."

Dr. Griggs, who humorously calls himself the "itinerant teacher" and who for years was associated with leading universities, said representative government "with all its faults and weaknesses" is the best instrument yet devised for sitting the unknown thought through the common thought and finding the great common denominator of public opinion.

As he closed his scholarly address, the speaker lashed out at the present American neutrality legislation and declared that we must meet force by force—and "continue to arm."

He described "eternal vigilance" as the cost of good government, be it city, state, or national, and it means, he said, that good citizens of the community must "be kept awake and on the job." "We must," he said, "keep everlastingly shaking them."

Dr. Griggs left for New York and a series of Atlantic coast lectures at the close of the luncheon here.

The Rotary ladies attending as guests rose in a body as Dr. C. C. Green, president of the club, introduced them during the meeting.

The day's song service was in charge of James W. Moorehead, music committee chairman. Rev. Dr. Joseph A. Doerr, member of the club, gave the invocation. The speaker was introduced by S. Huston Rhoads, head of the program committee.

DAILY DOZEN

(From the Medical Society of the State of Pennsylvania)

Eczema is very distressing to baby and to mother.

It is believed that eczema is somehow hereditary.

Often in earlier generations eczema or hay fever has been common.

Eczema is a roughness and redness of the skin.

There are tiny blisters which break and ooze.

Eczema may spread widely over the body.

It is usually on face or in bends of elbows, knees, armpits.

On the scalp, as dry scales, it is known as "milk crust."

Baby's hands should be tied so he cannot scratch.

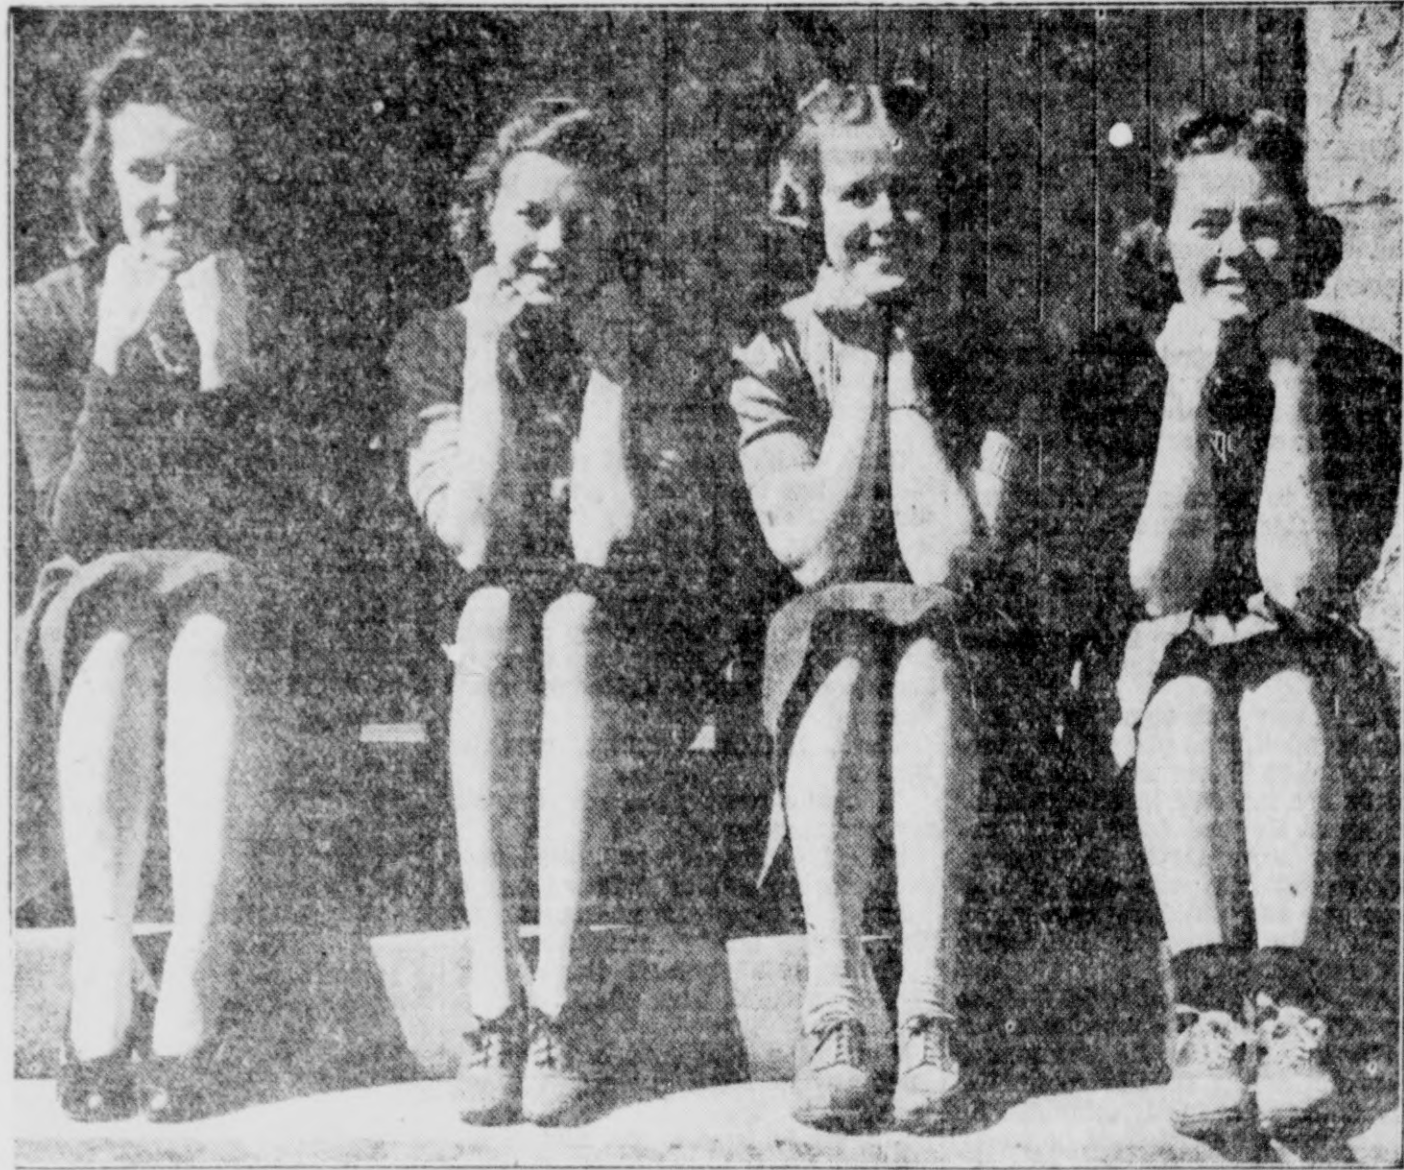

Oil should be used on the skin instead of soap and water.

Certain foods may make the eczema worse.

The doctor can advise on diet and treatment for eczema.

Choose Brunette As May Queen

NEW WILMINGTON, March 21.—Westminster college students broke a tradition of blonde May queens by choosing Miss Jeanne McCully, extreme left of Mr. Lebanon, as the 1939 Queen of the May.

She will not be officially crowned until early June.

port probably will tell council how much the equipment will cost if the city wants to purchase it for municipal operation of the park.

Council has not yet received any word from the city legal bureau regarding the request of the local Coal Merchants association what they term "unfair competition."

The local dealers told council they pay city and school taxes, also a mercantile tax and persons from outside the city who sell coal here do not pay any taxes. The association asked council to do one of two things: either tax every coal dealer or remove the tax from the local dealers. The matter was referred to the legal bureau for an opinion.

Sharon council and William Muldoon of Youngstown, general manager of the Shenango Valley Transportation company, which will provide bus service in Sharon as soon as street railway service is abandoned by the traction company, will meet in Sharon Wednesday, to discuss the change, which will be effective as soon as the necessary permission is obtained from the Pennsylvania public utilities commission.

Someone is tempting arrest and a steep fine according to caretakers of the city parking meters, one having been found plugged with paper 10 times during a 48 hour period.

Saturday, Meter No. 541, located in North Mercer street, was plugged six times and Monday, it was plugged four times. Small pieces of yellow paper were inserted in the slot. Each time a report reached police headquarters stating the meter would not work a service operator was sent to alleviate the trouble.

With spring here it is time to think of clean-up. Naturally many persons have permitted rubbish to gather in yards, cellars and attics during the wintry months but now want to rid the premises of the rubbish. Official dumps are in Locust and Cascade streets. Persons who wish to haul their own rubbish to Locust street should travel through Moody avenue according to city attaches. The Cascade street dump may be reached by either Croton or Butler avenues.

Only 15 cases of contagious illness were reported during February to the city health bureau. There were only 28 days last month which shows an average of slightly more than one case each 24 hours. Whooping cough held high with 10 patients. Chicken pox affected four patients; scarlet fever, four; erysipelas, one; measles, one and diphtheria, one.

Chauncey Davis, city policeman, designated as sanitary officer, made 23 inspections in meat and fish markets; 17 in hotels and restaurants; and eight in confectionery stores, last month, health bureau reports show.

Nine hundred and eighty four tons of garbage were collected and burned by employees under the jurisdiction of Ed Umbright, collection and garbage plant superintendent, in February. In addition employees filled, hauled away from residences and disposed of at city dumps, 115 loads of tin cans.

February was a poor month for animal life. The garbage bureau reported, stating that 77 dogs, 23 cats, one pig and one "bunny" met death either naturally or through an accident in the city last month. Their remains were disposed of by fire in the city furnace.

Dr. W. L. Steen, health officer for the city of New Castle, tested 41 samples of water last month. He made 22 tests of drinking water from the city system, nine from privately-owned wells and springs and examined 12 samples taken from bathing pools.

Twenty-two persons were examined by their personal physicians and pronounced in physical condition required to handle foodstuffs and beverages in this city.

Six persons paid 25 cents each in February to haul rubbish here, eleven dealers received milk licenses a month. Licenses were issued for the operation of five restaurants in the city in February.

News And Views From Pennsylvania Capital

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, March 21.—Four colors—red, blue, green and yellow—are today arousing interest on Capitol Hill.

When Fisher came into office there were no Democrats to fire, whereas Governor James succeeded a Democratic governor and a Democratic administration.

It appears that the private citizen holds one prerogative which is denied the governor, the right to visit legislative sessions at will.

Custom decrees that a governor receive an official invitation before he attends a session of the house or senate.

Recently Governor James indicated a desire to attend a session of the senate while he acted as presiding officer during his term as acting-governor in the Fisher administration.

... but he would like to visit it as a private citizen, he said.

This pleasure apparently will be denied him.

An illustrious predecessor of Governor James recently paid him a visit at the executive offices.

He was former Governor John S. Fisher.

During the Earle administration all bills backed by the administration appeared in bid-backed covers.

Bills introduced by members were blue-backed in the house and yellow-backed in the senate.

During the early days of the James administration several red-backed bills appeared again.

... they were the bills to transfer funds for relief.

Since then they have not made their appearance again, but in their place there suddenly appeared green-backed bills.

These were the reorganization bills, or, as the Democrats termed them, the Ripper bills abolishing various bureaus.

Controlled by Democrats and turning their duties and powers over to Republican-controlled agencies.

Now the question on Capitol Hill is, does a green-backed bill indicate an administration-backed measure?

Dr. Dafoe's Column On The Quintuplets And The Care Of Your Children

Copyright 1938, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

LACK OF VITAMIN B CAUSES DEFICIENCY IN MUSCLE TONE

A common cause of constipation in children is a deficiency in the Vitamin B which supplies muscular tone to the bowels. We see this occur quite often in infants who have been weaned early and whose diet contains too much milk and not enough carbohydrates—sugars and starches. Constipation is far less frequent in breast-fed babies because breast milk is their natural food and is adapted to them. When a breast-fed infant does get constipation it is usually because he isn't getting enough food.

Sometimes a local condition, such as fissures in the anal region, will contribute to constipation in a child. These fissures form at the outlet of the bowel, and the result is that the passing is very painful to the child. His natural tendency in such a case is to avoid having evacuations at all. When this happens persistently, the holding of the waste material in the lower bowel is liable to lead to an enlargement. The bowel then may become partly paralyzed; from then on its condition worsens and worse.

When these anal fissures are present, and you find that they are interfering with your child's bowel movement, it is a good idea to keep the stools soft and non-irritating until the fissures have healed. In these cases I have found plain mineral oil to be very useful.

One thing every mother can do is see to it that the child establishes regular habits in bowel movements. Once this has been taught, it will save many troubles, not only while he is a child, but all through his life.

A large number of so-called cases of constipation aren't really constipation at all, and require no treatment. For instance a child may only have one bowel movement a day, yet it never misses a day. As long as the child is in good health, why pay any attention to this? On the other hand, if evacuation is painful and troublesome, if there are flecks of blood, then there should be some treatment given. I think the most important treatment is looking after what the child eats.

Constipation due to underfeeding is only one type, but it is an important symptom; if the child isn't getting enough to eat to keep his bowels moving properly, then it isn't getting enough to give it the nourishment it must have if there is going to be proper growth.

Very often, as I have pointed out, the child is getting enough food but because it isn't the right kind, it becomes constipated. If this is the matter, then consult your doctor about it. Every case is a new one—there aren't two children alike—and it needs the personal observation of your physician really to be sure you are doing the right thing.

Mayor Presents Tax Labor Plan

Would Have Citizens Help
Keep Streets Clean; No Action Taken

Mayor Charles E. McGrath suggested to colleagues during council session, held in city hall Monday, that one and possibly two men in each district of the city be employed to clean streets under the tax labor plan.

He pointed out that in Sheridan avenue some material which fell from a wagon apparently, was yet lying there.

The mayor said that the tax labor plan might furnish work and help to enhance the appearance of paved thoroughfares.

Councilman W. H. Dunlap said that the sweeper can only work in dry weather but added that it does much more work than hand-workers can perform.

It was not Mayor McGrath's plan to eliminate the sweeper but to have men keep streets tidy at all times.

Councilmen Dunlap and Rice both said that if their departments are notified when material, such as garbage or rubbish falls from trucks, they gladly would have employees of the department collect the material.

Under the tax labor plan, workers receive one-half their wages in cash and one-half is applied to delinquent taxes.

Army Reserve To Meet Here Friday

Group Will Meet To Organize Post Here

At the present time there are about 150 members of the Regular Army Reserve in Lawrence County, and they are all eligible to belong to the post.

Mayor Charles E. McGrath, is very much in favor of this post, and he will be at the meeting Friday, to speak. H. R. Blewitt, commander of the American Legion Post will also speak, as will Joseph C. Murphy, Chief Gunners Mate of the United States Navy.

Republican Vets Adopt Unit By-Laws

Directors Will Be Elected At Next Meeting Of Organization In April

By-laws which will govern the conduct of the local organization were adopted by the Republican War Veterans of Pennsylvania, Unit No. 1, at a meeting in The Castleton last evening, presided over by President Iver V. Davis.

The local by-laws provide for an executive committee consisting of the officers and five directors. The officers were named last fall, but no directorate has been chosen, and they will be elected at the next meeting, which will take place on the third Monday of April, chosen by those present last evening as the regular meeting night.

President Davis appointed Clarence Jarrett, Jack Williams and Harold Sampson as a committee on entertainment for the next meeting.

The mine where Sir Harry Lauder, the Scotch singer worked as a boy, is visited yearly by many tourists. It is at Hamilton, near Glasgow, Scotland.

William Powell May Get Back In Movies By May

By MILTON HARKER
(International News Service)

HOLLYWOOD, March 21.—Looking his old chipper self but still weak from a year of illness and operations, William Powell probably won't resume screen work until May, at the earliest.

M-G-M had hoped to get Bill and Myrna Loy going in "The Return of the Thin Man" shortly after April 1, but Powell doesn't feel equal to the strain.

"I want to make sure I'm feeling fit as a fiddle before I start," he says.

Powell is back at his hotel apartment after resting in the desert. Myrna has been down in Arizona recuperating from the flu.

It may very well come about that Alan Marshall, who played the murder victim in "After the Thin Man," will be the screen's leading man of the year. He has come along remarkably since David O. Selznick first signed him two and a half years ago and put him in a minor part in "The Garden of Allah" with Marlene Dietrich.

Later he was loaned to M-G-M to play aide-de-camp to Charles Boyer in "Conquest." Then he was loaned to several of the smaller companies for leading roles in "B" pictures. He showed up so well M-G-M borrowed him again for the top male role opposite Louise Rainer and Paulette Goddard in "Dramatic School."

And this summer Selznick will cash in by starring Marshall in "Flaming Stream."

Marshall may shoot up into sudden popularity just as Douglas Fairbanks Jr., and Cary Grant have done.

When Fairbanks signed to do "The Prisoner of Zenda" for Selznick he received $25,000 for the assignment under a 3-picture contract. Now he gets $100,000 per picture but he still has two to do for Selznick at the old $25,000 rate.

Clark Gable's frequent ribbing of himself has made him just as popular at Selznick as on his home lot, M-G-M. A good example comes as he makes the scene in "Gone With the Wind" in which he is insulted before a large group of men by Rand Brooks, portraying Charles Hamilton, Scarlett O'Hara's first husband.

Clark, as Rhett Butler, says to Brooks: "I again must apologize for all my shortcomings."

Then he must turn to Leslie Howard, playing Ashley Wilkes, excuse himself, toss a barbed remark at Brooks and stride from the room. Gable goes through the scenes, struts out and then turns with a laugh and says:

"Boy, was that a hamer. Does anyone smell anything around here?"

Everybody laughs, too, and Howard pats Clark on the back. It takes a regular fellow to make fun of yourself before a big audience and Gable does it all the time.

On Court House Hill

Edwin O. Reed, who has been welfare director for the county for the past three years, spent his last day around the courthouse Monday, saying goodbye to his associates and receiving congratulations from them and friends who came in.

On Monday Mr. Reed presented his resignation to the county commissioners, and today started his new duties as superintendent of highways for the state.

In presenting his resignation Mr. Reed thanked the commissioners for their courtesy and co-operation, and also thanked Sheriff M. M. Ingham and Probation and Juvenile Officer Jack M. Dunlap for their many courtesies. It was with these three departments that Mr. Reed worked during his term of office.

Criminal court got under way again Monday morning, but it will not last long. Two cases were on the calendar, and because of this a number of jurors were excused who might otherwise have had to serve.

Of the 80 jurors called, the following were excused by the court: Walter G. Dietterle, carpenter, second ward; Rudolph Ezzi, machinist, fourth ward; Margaret Lipp, housekeeper, Little Beaver township; Lydia Main, housekeeper, Mahoning township; Richard Nesbit, clerk, Shenango township; Jessie Simpson, housekeeper, Pulaski township.

The following jurors were not present at the opening of court, due to sickness, removal or other causes: Ella Ayers, housekeeper, sixth ward; George Campbell, farmer, Shenango township; Melville Clark, farmer, Washington township; Bertram Davis, clerk, second ward; William B. Francis, railroad, second ward; Elizabeth Hanna, housekeeper, third ward; Charles V. Kelley, laborer, sixth ward; Alice McAnlis, housekeeper, Big Beaver township; Charles McNickle, painter, second ward; Rena Price, housekeeper, Washington township; J. W. Staudinger, manager, first ward; Millie Valentine, laborer, Bessemer; Millie Wallace, housekeeper, fourth ward; Leonard Weir, salesman, Ellport.

In a letter to County Treasurer V. I. Mandich, Attorney Charles H. Young, solicitor for the New Castle school board, authorizes the filing of 1933-34 delinquent school taxes on May 1. The reason for filing both years at once is to save the taxpayers a double lien-filing charge. Taxpayers with small balances unpaid will save themselves a lot if they clear off the delinquencies before filing time.

Jurors for the civil courts in April are being drawn by Jury Commissioners George J. Forrest, Mrs. Adams and Sheriff M. M. Ingham.

The following actions have been filed in the office of the register and recorder:

M. K. Gilliland files an amicable separation suit against William and Pearl Nunn.

The borough of Ellwood City files a damage suit against the Ventrella Produce company for $117.63. The borough claims that on May 20, 1933, a truck of the defendant company got away on an Ellwood street and backed into a light pole, ruining it.

During the week past 51 Democrats changed their registration to Republican, two no-party changed to Republican, 22 new voters registered Republican, six new voters registered Democratic, two Democrats changed to no-party.

Plan Fertilizer And Crop Meetings

Meetings Are Arranged For Scott And Perry Township Districts

Two meetings are scheduled to be held in the Scott and Perry townships to discuss good varieties of crops and in a general manner the fertilizers most suited in crops under specific conditions. These meetings will be held in the Liberty Grange Hall, Scott township, Thursday evening, March 23, at 8 o'clock, and in the Pleasant Hill Grange Hall, Perry township on Friday evening, March 24, at 8 o'clock.

D. H. Ricks, acting county agent, of Lawrence County will lead the discussions at these meetings.

Exchange Club Meeting Monday

New Castle Exchange club members held their weekly dinner meeting in The Castleton, Monday evening.

The group heard an interesting talk delivered by Milton A. Bickett, passenger and freight agent of the P. and L. E. railroad company. Bickett explained the importance of railroads to the community and the duties of his office. He also cited the fact that railroads rank as the second largest industry in the county.

The group meets again on next Monday evening, at 5:45 o'clock, in The Castleton.

DEMOCRATS REFUSE TO CONFIRM COUNTY BOARDS

Governor Names Relief Boards

Indications Confirmation To Be Withheld During Legislative Session

APPOINTMENTS ARE SENT TO COMMITTEE

By RAYMOND WILCOVE
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, March 21.—The name of 448 members of 64 county boards of assistance, newly appointed by Gov. Arthur H. James, today languished in committee as Democratic senators refused to confirm them. Relief boards for Erie, McKean and Cumberland counties were as yet unnamed.

Forewarned by the Democratic minority leader, Sen. Harry Shapiro Phila. that the Democrats "will not confirm them," the Republican leadership in the senate was forced to "pickle" them, at least temporarily, in the committee on executive nominations.

May Remain For Session There they will remain until Democratic support is assured. If this is not forthcoming the names will remain in committee for the remainder of the session, following which Governor James will make interim appointments.

Meanwhile, the Department of Public Assistance will assume all functions formerly handled by the county boards, the employment board and the state board of assistance. Members of the employment board resigned, and Democrats refused to confirm members of the state assistance board.

Thus, temporarily at least, and contrary to the governor's wishes, the administration of relief in Pennsylvania was completely centralized under one man, Secretary of Public Assistance Howard K. Russell.

Democrats Opposed To obtain confirmation of Governor James' appointees Republicans in the senate must obtain the support of nine Democrats to make up the necessary two-thirds majority of 34.

Democratic opposition to confirmation was based on the belief that the appointments were political. It was expected that boards which received the approval of Democratic senators from their counties would be confirmed.

Of the 448 appointments only 70 were re-appointments and of the 64 counties to which boards were named on only six was a majority of the old members returned. These were Cameron, Crawford, Mercer, Monroe, Mifflin and Union counties. In no county was the entire board renamed.

Opposition to confirmation of new board members was not confined to Democratic senators, at least one Republican, Sen. George A. Deirick, Northumberland, having already expressed his dissatisfaction with the dismissal of the old board in his county.

"Room Service" Date Announced Shortly

Rehearsals for "Room Service," the comedy to be presented by the Provincial Players in the near future are progressing and the date for the presentation will be announced shortly.

The casting for the play has been done slowly and carefully and in the opinion of James B. Sotus, director, "Room Service" will be the best piece of work the Provincial Players have done.

It is the story of a pair of theatrical producers who are whipping a play into shape in a hotel room. They have a lot of ideas but no money and their difficulties in getting out of the room without paying their bill are a laugh.

Hunger Strike At San Quentin Ends Except For Fifty

(International News Service)
SAN QUENTIN PRISON, Cal., March 21.—San Quentin prison's second hunger strike within two months faded today as swiftly as it erupted.

Hungry gazing at a breakfast menu of rolled oat mush, milk, canned peaches, brown beans, white bread, coffee and milk, all except 50 of the 1,000 convicts who refused to partake of dinner last night quickly lined up for the morning meal today.

The 50 die-hards, most of them "young toughies" according to Warden Court Smith, stood by booing and hissing the 5,250 men in the breakfast line.

Aided by the capitulation of most of the demonstrators, prison authorities pressed their investigation to learn the identity of the ringleaders of the plot and mete out punishment.

They began questioning the 50 strikers remaining, giving them the choice of going about their regular duties or being placed in their cells on bread and water.

church in Lawrence county and that which has developed during the years since 1848.

The service will be the Penitential Office, which is designed for use in the Lenten season.

The singing of the hymns will be led by a choir of men being assembled by Messrs. William B. Howe and John E. Perry. Miss Isabel T. Johnson will be at the organ.

Tribute Is Accorded To Miss Leola Meeder

ELLWOOD CITY, March 21.—Fitting tribute was paid Miss Leola Meeder, manager of the Ellwood City Credit Exchange, on Monday evening when a dinner was held at the Ellwood City Country club by members of the merchants' division of the Chamber of Commerce as a celebration honoring the 13 years of service she has given to the Exchange and the Chamber of Commerce.

C. Guy Ferguson, secretary and manager of the Pittsburgh Credit Bureau and president of the National Consumer Credit Reporting corporation, and Colonel Franklin Blackstone, of Pittsburgh, past president and now a director of the National Retail Credit association, both outstanding leaders in credit bureau work, were the guest speakers. They both spoke on the subject "The Value of a Credit Exchange to the Community," and greatly stressed the need of cooperation between the merchant and the exchange.

Mr. Ferguson said 130,000 stores in Pennsylvania pay a million dollars every year for credit information and the largest losses are sustained in the towns where business does not support the credit exchange. He urged the group to support the bureau and to contribute both good and derogatory records so that other members might have a clear record of their customers' credit rating whether they live in Pittsburgh or Ellwood City.

Describing the growth of the credit exchange and contrasting present day credit methods of the progressive merchants with the unexperienced, ship-shod credit methods of the unprogressive retailers, Mr. Blackstone in his address abounding in subtle humor, re-affirmed the great need of cooperation between the two groups. Customers will be maintained and profits fill cash registers with the speed and accuracy with which the merchant may secure the information he

Board Of Review To Meet Tonight

Streamlined Meeting For Second And First Class Scout Advancement

ELLWOOD CITY, March 21.—Boy Scouts in the Ellwood City district will have an opportunity to visit the new and improved streamlined board of review tonight in the city building. The meeting will be held on the second floor of the building and will be for second and first class scout advancement only. Registrations will start at 7 p. m. and from all available reports there are many boy scouts wanting to advance in both classes. All scoutmasters will be sure to have one or more qualified examiners present to assist in the technical work of passing these scouts. Each troop having applicants for advancement should bring their signal flags, a couple roller and triangle bandages and a set of splints. The scoutmaster will also sign the scouts achievement card recommending him for the desired advancement. If the boy scout has completed all the tests and served the required time.

The boy scout is again reminded that he must bring a satisfactory map, the story of his 14 mile hike and any other test which is required to be written before the review board.

The improved streamlined review board will be different from anything we have had to date. Sam Strehler, the Neighborhood Commissioner painted signs and each scoutmaster or assistant will have but one examination to give each scout as he passes around the entire group. The examinations will be much swifter and more comprehensive as each examiner will be a specialist in the test which he is giving.

Beanfield Seen As Potential Airfield For Japanese Near Canal

(Editor's Note—H. R. Knickerbocker traveled 10 hours by motor, by horse and by foot to look at a beanfield because it may be "the most important beanfield in the world." Not because of its beans, but because it is a perfect potential airfield and within three hours flying distance of the Panama Canal. Knickerbocker discusses beans vs. Japanese military plans in this article.)

By H. R. KNICKERBOCKER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

CALI, Colombia, March 21.—Four hundred and twenty flying miles from the Panama Canal I sat today on a Colombian horse and looked out over two square miles of Japanese beanfield. The field was absolutely level, the earth was firm. The beans were of the ground variety and now in bud, would when ready for harvesting make a carpet about the thickness of long grass over the whole plantation. All the year round the two square miles would be unobstructed by any phase of the crop.

A few Japanese farm laborers chopped clouds silently and only looked up a brief moment at the spectator. They were obviously not aviators. They and their comrades seemed truly to be interested only in beans, but the interest of any American spectator at their field must turn to aviation.

Could Accommodate 500 Planes

Because the beanfield here could accommodate a fleet of 500 airplanes without crowding, and because any medium fast warplane could reach the Panama Canal from here in less than three hours, and because the field is remote from any except calculated observation, and because it belongs to a little group of Japanese who have made of it a tiny part of Japan, the beanfield is certainly the most interesting beanfield in the world for our defense authorities.

It is the nearest outpost of the Japanese to the Panama Canal with the exception of the so-called cotton plantation at Puntarenas, Costa Rica, which is 120 miles nearer. From either field it is conceivable that Japanese warplanes, landed from aircraft carriers several thousand miles out in the Pacific, could base attacks upon the canal. But the beanfield here, twice the size of the Costa Rican "cotton field," and much more remote from observation, could be the more useful of bamboo jungle there are better hiding places for stores of airplane fuel and bombs than in the bare open field at Puntarenas.

American defense authorities regard both fields with deep suspicion. Hence the justification for so long a trip to be the first American newspaperman personally to inspect both potential Japanese air bases. It took ten hours of motoring, horseback riding, and walking to reach and return from this one, located in the heart of the Cauca river valley, which Colombians call the biggest and richest valley in South America. Forty miles of auto roads through jungle flaming with great trees of crimson flowers, through feathery bamboo groves, past native shacks on stilts and squalid negro villages brings one from Cali, capital of the department of Valle, to the town of Corinto.

The Human Side Of The News

(By EDWIN C. HILL)

Copyright 1939 King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Friends down on Wall Street tell me that business is improving faster than the stock market. For various definite reasons, these informants say, the market is no longer an accurate barometer of business conditions. The explanation lies on the human side of the news. Challenging, stimulating, contending, adventurous human forces have passed from the money mart. Gone are the Harrimans, Leisters and Sullys, and in later years the Livermores and Baruchs. It used to be that a reporter, on a dull day, could always find a story about some bold plunger who started as a board boy and came to juggling millions, deploying his dollar armies against some other budding Napoleon, battling through a feverish day in which by some inspired coup de main he would rout the enemy and, at nightfall, find himself knee-deep in fresh millions.

This kind of milling was as deep in our national saga as New England apple pie, but it's gone with Villon's snouts of yesterday, and so are the glamorous heavy-hitters of the big-money league. There's a new line-up of cautious four-biters, scalping an eighth now and then, pouching small gains thankfully, or to change the figure, pinching a bet after just one pass.

A few weeks ago, a correspondent in Plainfield, N. J., reproached this department for not taking in more territory in "The Human Side of the News." He maintained that the world is a composite of unpredictable human forces, rather than a resultant of bloodless economic and political uniformities, and that pretty nearly everything important came out of that Pandora's box which we call human nature.

That idea would seem to be pertinent to the present drab and cautious stock market, as contrasted to the bravura and the daring of the old days. Say what you will about the resources and the technology which made the big-money run-around of the pre-smash era, when something happened it usually turned out that somebody had started it.

The money kings and market pluggers, performing a basic function in the monetary ignition system, Marx felt down here when he put his economic man—a creature as bloodless as Karloff, the Frankenstein monster.

There are, of course, other reasons for the two-penny, safety-first market. People with important money have been seized with the same security obsession as the rest of us. All anybody wants these days is a jug-handled cinch. When the sky was the limit, the chance for a big winning would readily induce a big risk. But now the spot risk is greater and the possible clean-up less.

On the short side, you have to put down a 50 per cent margin; on the long side, 40 per cent. That means that if you buy ten shares of telephone at 160 you spot up $540.00. In other days, your ante on this deal would have been $160.00, on your margin of ten points. A similar change of rules would snuff out every sizeable poker game in Flatbush. Then again, there are innumerable other discouragements to speculation.

The John Laws are lurking around that corner where prosperity is supposed to be—to nab you for any slight infraction under the new and elaborate rule book. If you have a ten percent interest in a corporation, or are its officer or director, all your winnings, with corporation funds, go into the company kitty, but you take the losses, if you lose. If you get caught sitting in on a pool, or any scheme for manipulation, or for wash sales, which used to be pretty much par for the course, it's just too bad. You explain it to the judge.

And so, the lads who can manage to buy the baby some shoes on past winnings, just don't fade the dealer any longer. They pull out and put their money on ice—in government bonds or low-income securities, and wait for a better day. I asked one of the old railbirds down in the street whether in this drab day the actual level of prices was anywhere nearer earnings than it used to be. "Yes," he said, "it probably is,

But that isn't the whole story. There was some pretty wild inflation at times, but you could afford to gamble the future. Things were moving and real values and earning kept on moving up."

"Will it happen again?" "Sure," was the answer. This country is so rich there's no stopping it. I predict that the big boys will be in again, head-over-heels, before the year is over."

FULTON'S BIRTHPLACE MAY BECOME A SHRINE

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, March 21.—State Representative Norman Wood, of Lancaster, has announced he will introduce a bill to provide that the State of Pennsylvania acquire the birthplace of Robert Fulton, whose steamboat revolutionized commerce and navigation.

The measure will carry an appropriation of $25,000 for the purchase of the landmark located in southern Lancaster county on the Robert Fulton highway, and an additional $3,000 for restoration and maintenance as a state shrine.

New York Fair Will Show Life In Lowest Form

However, Scientist Declares Further, It Will Only Be Antics Of Microbes

By ALLAN J. FUNCH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

PITTSBURGH, March 21.—While world's fair officials at New York puzzled over just how much of the feminine form may be exhibited without overbalancing the rules of decorum, scientists here calmly announced they will show "all the primary instincts of life in its lowest form."

On five-foot screens, in full view of one and all, will be thrown reflections of exhibitions of lovemaking, fighting and even killings, the scientists said.

Furthermore, they anticipated no opposition from Grover Whalen or any other director of the fair. "After all they stoutly declare since when has a microbe—life in its lowest form—been allowed the privilege of privacy from prying eyes?" Through the invention of Dr. George Roemmer, a "microprojector" will throw reflections of living inhabitants of a drop of water on a series of screens in actual colors.

GRIFF THOMAS TO SPEAK

Griff Thomas will speak on "Wales and the Welsh" at the weekly meeting of the Pro Indus club in the Y. M. C. A. Thursday evening, March 23, at 7:30 o'clock.

The United States built a fort in 1816 at the mouth of the Richelieu river. Then it was found that it was built on Canadian territory. It was named "Fort Bunder" but Canada, in neighborly fashion, transferred the site to the U. S.

Better to look AT... and Better to look OUT OF!

LA SALLE $1240

WHEN YOU RIDE in a new LaSalle, your view of the landscape is well high perfect. The LaSalle Sedan has more than twenty square feet of window and windshield space—an addition of 112 square inches over last year! And this extra area of glass does much more than increase the view. It adds tremendously to safety. Yes—LaSalle is not only better to look at—it's better to look out of! A demonstration costs nothing. Why not ask for one?

Epworth Takes Third Title By Win Over Mahoning 5

Third Straight Year For Epworth To Win Church League Championship

Epworth M. E. basketball team for the third straight year has won the New Castle Church Basketball league championship. The East Side boys clinched the championship last night by taking over the fine Mahoning M. E. quintet 28 to 21 in the feature game on the night's card.

Muse and Reed paced the champions with the majority of the points between them. Howard and Denny were best for the losers.

In the first game the Second U. P. won from the First M. E. team 20 to 17, and in the third game the First Presbyterians hung one on the Third U. P. boys 34 to 30.

FROM ME TO YOU
By MESEALL

Some of our feathered friends at last must realize that this is the first day of Spring. They were out chirping around this morning in spite of the weather being a little chilly... it was down to about 22 degrees at our place this morning and no doubt it was colder in other spots. But with the sun shining it won't take many days for the trees and other nature products to wake up and start to make growth. What a season... we should all be very happy... we are living in a great country and we are not thinking too much we think we can do things better if we were in the political chair... we should always remember that these United States are a lot better off than our nearest rival.

Our children are going to school... and when they realize that spring is here they won't be totting their guns to the training field but they will be going out for track, swimming, baseball and a score of other sports. Their nights will be spent under a moon of contentment and the mountains and mountain streams will call to them with longing arms and laughing smiles. Oh, give thanks that we are citizens of the United States.

Got talking to a group the other day and as talk will go, several subjects were covered. Among the topics of conversation was one concerning the type of people that we find on the streets... ones that come into a man's establishment for something other than making a purchase. The first visit he is usually treated with great respect... the second and so forth he can be treated the same if he has been truthful about his mission. We find however that too many of the favor seekers are not too truthful. The worst thing that the human race has to contend with is untruthful persons. It is better to be truthful about everything than to try to cover up later. My friends of East Washington street will understand the above thoughts.

And now we turn your attention to the classified ad page. You might wonder why we keep talking about this page. We are really excited about the results that you can receive from using this page. We don't ask that you take our word for this but just drop into the ad store and find out for yourself. Especially at housecleaning time.
